

WYOMING'S COPPER BELT.

East Branch of the Sweetwater Attracting Much Attention.

ASSAYS RUN AS HIGH AS ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS

BIG SYNDICATE WILL AT ONCE TAKE IT IN HAND.

A Smeiter to Be Erected--If the Property Justifies the Faith of the Men at Present Directly and Indirectly Interested It Will Mean Much, Not Only For Wyoming, But For Utah as Well--Men of Push and Progress at the Helm.

Rock Springs, Aug. 10. [Special].--The remarkable copper deposit discovered last fall at Gold and Mill creeks and on the east branch of the Sweetwater, is attracting at this time much attention. Developments show a broad copper ledge, which has been traced a distance of nine miles to the east. For the most part it is a brown oxide of copper, carrying considerable gold, but has not been prospected at any point to a depth of more than 15 feet.

The assays show that it contains copper, gold and silver and some of the assays have run up as high as $100 in value. The great ledge which extends across the country is 140 feet between well defined walls. The property has been taken up by a number of miners without capital, who for some months past have been trying to interest mining men of means. A syndicate composed of Cheyenne, Denver, Rock Springs and Lander men, have had the property examined with a view to doing enough development work to test the real values in the deposit. It is proposed to expend $75,000 in work, which shall show what is at great depth, and at the same time to excavate the lead from wall to wall. The syndicate proposes to put in a small smelter, of the capacity of 40 tons per day. This, they think, will more quickly show the value of the property than anything else they can do. Negotiations are now going on between the syndicate and the property owners with a promise to succeed. William Sturges, Jr., of Cheyenne, a man of large experience in copper mining and copper smelting, is at the head of the enterprise and he is now having cost made of the ore.

Frank Spaworth, who is well known throughout Wyoming, is a member of the syndicate and if the enterprise is carried through he will undoubtedly take in the whole part in the company to be formed, as it is known that he has been tendered the management.

The locality in which this great lead is found is about 6 miles north of Rock Springs by a well defined wagon road, the road over which the Rock Springs stage runs. It is about four miles from the continental divide and the formation extends from the northeast to the southwest. There is promise of great value in the great lead, but as nothing can be determined until a large amount of money has been spent in the way of development. The miners see the importance of encouraging men with means to take hold with them in determining values.
